First Efforts Begin Here to Relocate Vietnamese Families

Eight members of one Vietnamese refugee family are now sharing the one-bedroom Plainsboro apartment of the young woman and her husband who are their closest relatives.

A Princeton Junction couple is sponsoring an acquaintance from Saigon and his cousin.

A Pennington church and a committee of Princeton's Interfaith Council are sending letters of intent to resettlement agencies to sponsor a Vietnamese or Cambodian family.

These are the first stirrings in this community of the relocation efforts that have been going on nationwide for upwards of 100,000 Vietnamese who fled their country at the close of the war. Brought first to Guam or Wake Island, then to makeshift centers at Camp Pendleton, Calif., Fort Chaffee, Ark., Fort Indiantown Gap, Pa. or Eglin Air Force Base, Fla., the refugees must be sponsored by families or by church and civic groups before they are introduced to American society.

Preliminary paper work for sponsorship had scarcely begun before 26-year-old Christine Wong and her husband, of Fox Run Apartments, Plainsboro, were notified that Mrs. Wong's father, mother, three brothers (ages 22, 16 and 14), her 17-year-old sister and two little nieces would be arriving at Newark in two days. Excitedly, the young woman notified the Interfaith Council, which had been looking for suitable housing for the family, and one of its members produced, if not the housing, at least, the necessary extra car in which to bring them all to Plainsboro.

There was an anxiety-producing snafu which had the family arriving unexpectedly at Kennedy airport and the luggage at Newark, but finally all were joined. The family members were wearing on their backs the only clothing they possessed. The little bit of luggage was filled to capacity with paper towels, and with discarded baby bottles, carefully cleaned and filled with salt and sugar, staples that are very expensive and hard to come by in Vietnam.

An upper middle-class family with its own fabric importing business and shop near Saigon, they had been helped out of the country by a friend who took them in a car to a small boat. They were in the boat three days without food, thinking surely they would not survive, their possessions thrown overboard to make room for as many people as possible.

The 7th Fleet picked them up, gave them one meal a day and took them to Guam. One brother was separated along the way and went to Wake Island instead, but the family was reunited finally at Camp Chaffee. It was from Chaffee that they were flown to New York.

Mrs. Wong herself came to the United States in November of 1970 for training in hospital administration, and in 1972 met her future husband, a graduate student at Princeton. They have been married just a year and a half. Mrs. Wong commutes to her job as an administrative clerk in the Develop-

Nine Inches of Summer Rain in 24 Hours Turns Princeton into Choppy Inland Sea

TRAPPED: This car became impaled on a storm drain in the curb at the intersection of Birch and Bayard Lane which was turned into a small lake by Monday's rains.

Your neighbor who drowned Monday in his tomato patch was swept to his doom in the nine inches of rain (8.98) that fell in Princeton from 8 a.m. Monday to 8 a.m. Tuesday. The count from the start of the storm, last Thursday morning, is a soggy 11.68 inches. (No, Station WOR, it was NOT 14 inches. Ever.)

'Of that 8.98 inches, 6.30 fell in the ten hours between 8 a.m. and 6 p.m. Monday.

"Wet clouds and a little wetter than normal," says weatherman David Ludlum of Science Associates, fishing a small trout from his left boot.

"The front came in on Friday but didn't move east off the coast," he explained, "It got blocked by a big high-pressure ridge in the Atlantic, and sort of moved backward, into central Pennsylvania."

So Princeton got a flow of the Atlantic Ocean for three days. There were some residents who would have gone swimming at the Valley-State Road intersection, except that they'd just seen "Jaws."

South and southeast winds pumped moisture, and the front "triggered it," in Mr. Ludlum's words. West-central New Jersey got it harder and wetter than anybody else, and Mr. Ludlum doesn't know anybody with a higher inch mark for rain.

Out on the Forrestal campus, Leith Holloway, of the Geophysical Fluid Dynamics lab of the Environmental Research Laboratories of NOAA-- the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (a full rain-guage of a name), recorded about six inches to Princeton's nine.

And Mr. Holloway says Plainsboro got only 2½ inches and Hopewell only 1.4.

"It was lined right down Route One," he said.

We still have the same kind of air-- or did, as of Tuesday afternoon-- but Mr. Ludlum assures us that it isn't being triggered. The front has either dissipated or moved west. There may be individual thunderstorms, but not a replay of Monday.

Water, Water, Everywhere.

"You're going to see more water than you ever saw before," was the flatout statement of a woman Monday to another person as he approached a flooded section of Route 206 near Eldridge Pontiac-Buick. Few in Princeton would disagree with her.

Although virtually no one was not affected in one way or another by the high water, both Township and Borough police report no injuries during the storm.

People and drivers were caught because "this thing really flashed up quick," in the words of Township Chief Frederick Porter. By late morning, waters were cascading all around Princeton.

Burton Peskin, his wife and daughter were rescued at 11:50 from their low-lying home at 76 Meadowbrook Drive by a boat from the First Aid and Rescue Squad. Three families on Wheatsheaf evacuated themselves.

Rescued with Ropes. A Princeton Township woman and her two children were trapped in their car at The Great Road near Winfield Drive at 1:30 and rescued with ropes. On River Road, a woman standing on the hood of her car was rescued from the rising water.

A stalled Volkswagen at Overbrook Drive and Shady Brook Lane was turned on its side by the force of the water. Police closed the Snowden Lane Bridge over Harry's Brook near Overbrook at 2:30 after the surface had been washed away.

All firemen and first aid personnel were alerted and put on standby at 11:50 in the Township. In the Borough, Lt. John Bellow, assistant Civil Defense officer manned the civil defense center in the basement of Borough Hall until 9:30 Monday night.

Other CD equipment stored in the basement of the Playhouse was "floating in three or four feet of water," said Capt. Theodore Lewis. Water had poured in so fast, he said, that it had knocked out the basement pumps.

MOUNT LUCAS LAKE: The intersection of Mount Lucas Road and the continuation of Cherry Valley Road is awash with water during Monday's heavy rains. It presented a menacing sight to drivers but cars were able to pass through without stalling.

Relocation Efforts

ment Agency at the United Nations, not getting home, in true commuter style, until after 7.

Her husband, who was born in Hong Kong, received his Ph.D. in chemical engineering from Princeton University this June. He needs a permanent resident visa to get a job, and a job to get his permanent resident visa. He had never met his wife's family, until all six and the two nieces descended on them last week.

Mrs. Wong, fortunately, is possessed of energy and a bubbly cheerfulness. Knowing that her family is accustomed to servants and to rice at every meal, she nonetheless has them happily eating cornflakes and milk in the morning, a sandwich at lunch and rice just at dinner.

Male members of Vietnamese families never do chores around the house, but she has persuaded her brothers to share the cooking and dishwashing.

However, the care required early each morning to avoid stepping on a still-sleeping relative, the competition for the bathroom, the far greater amounts of food needed for a household of ten instead of two, squeezing everybody into her small compact car (they all want to go wherever one goes) and the drain on her savings are enough to tax the most resilient of natures.

Red Cross Steps In. People stepped in right away to help. The Red Cross went on a shopping expedition for pajamas and underwear and made referral contact with Middlesex County Welfare to help with broken and lost eyeglasses and necessary dental care for various members of the family.

The 17-year-old brother woke up with red spots all over his body on the second morning. Residents of Plainsboro, which is outside Mercer County, are not eligible for clinic care at the Medical Center at Princeton. Again, the Red Cross stepped in, and Princeton's hospital treated what turned out to be a good case of hives.

The YWCA, specifically its World Service Committee, made arrangements for the two little nieces, ages eight and nine, to attend the Y summer day camp, and for individual tutoring in English for the three boys and the father. The 17-year-old sister speaks English, and the 22-year-old son fluent French and a little English.

Princeton University, acting as a member of the Interfaith Council's Ad Hoc Committee for Relocation of Vietnamese Refugees, has made available to the Council an unoccupied house for the family to live in through June 30, 1976. By then the family hopes to have established its independence. The University expects that the family, the Interfaith Council and others in the community will contribute to other needs such as furnishings, utilities, maintenance and upkeep costs.

Easier Time for Others. Meanwhile, two young Vietnamese men, sponsored by the Rev. Ty K Shin and his wife of Princeton Junction, are successfully settling into the community on their own.

The Rev. Mr. Shin, who works in the social welfare department of the United Presbyterian Church in New York, struck up an acquaintance with a 29-year-old Vietnamese social worker, Thomas Hong, while both were attending a conference on children in Saigon last January. He received a letter from Mr. Hong in mid-May, asking for sponsorship of himself and his 25-year-old cousin.

The Shins wrote back their willingness to sponsor through the offices of Church World Service, and within three weeks the two men arrived. They set about answering newspaper ads and shortly had established themselves in rooms in a Nassau Street office building, receiving free room and $30 a week in exchange for janitorial work done at night by the younger of the two.

Mr. Hong is on the verge of finding a job in New York; his cousin, Mr. Cuong, must first learn English. Both are currently receiving English lessons from the Y.

These first refugees will soon be joined by others, The Pennington Presbyterian Church has sent a letter of intent to the Church World Service asking for a family of four, and two Hightstown churches are reportedly also interested in sponsorship.

Sponsorship entails a moral committment to provide basic maintenance and to assist in the adjustment of the refugees for two years. Housing plans, ability to provide financial support and work opportunities are outlined before the resettlement agencies clear the way for the refugee to be reunited with the family, or for a match of an unknown refugee to a sponsor.

Another Family Sought. The Ad Hoc Committee for Relocation of Vietnamese families, which operates under the aegis of the Princeton Interfaith Council, is having the satisfaction of working on the second of its two objectives in the assistance it is rendering to Mrs. Wong's family.

Its first mission, however, is to bring one or more Vietnamese and-or Cambodian refugee families to Princeton under P.I.C. auspices before Labor Day. The Committee has filed its letter of request for a family comparable in size and character to a Princeton family, one with four or five members and school age children.

Truly a community wide group, the Ad Hoc Committee has participants from Princeton University, Princeton Theological Seminary, the YWCA and at least seven congregations from all three major faiths. The Committee stresses that it looks to member congregations to serve as the nucleus of a community wide, congregation-oriented effort to accomplish its relocation mission.

For, as Mrs. Wong said, she didn't know how she and her family could have gotten along without the help of Mrs. Anne Honore of the Red Cross, Mrs. Lanny King of the YWCA World Fellowship and Mr. Leslie Vivian, Mrs. Bonnie Wagner and others of P.I.C. The Princeton community had quietly welcomed its first Vietnamese refugees.

$20 Million Federal Sewer Grant Approved As Sewer Banker Pleads 'No More Delays'

The $20 million Federal grant to the Stony Brook Regional Sewerage Authority for construction of a treatment plant and pumping station was unanimously accepted by the SBRSA in a special late afternoon meeting Tuesday. Pennington representative Ezra Bixby, who moved acceptance of the grant, added sardonically, "....for better or worse, richer or poorer, may the Lord rest my soul!"

Mr. Bixby is concerned that the state may not come through with any money, and that there may not be money for the rest of the project. The present Federal grant is for the so-called Segment I.

And in fact, the excitement of last week, when the grant was announced, cooled down a bit this week:

- It was confirmed that the state won't make the 15 percent grant everybody had hoped for (but not wholly expected).
- The Department of Community Affairs issued a dismaying surprise report Friday urging a total halt of the state's 15 percent contribution, questioning SBRSA plans and suggesting SBRSA officials have "a lack of concern for the design implications of the sewer proposals."
- Tristam B. Johnson, investment banker for the SBRSA, warned the group that further delays would make it very difficult to find buyers for SBRSA bonds. And it looks as though more delays are indeed ahead.

River Road Site. The $20 million grant --- actually $19,695,250 --- was formally accepted late Tuesday afternoon by the SBRSA. It provides money for the treatment plant, to be built on River Road in Princeton Township, and the station, which will be on the east side of Lake Carnegie near Harrison Street, in West Windsor. The two installations are designed to serve the six towns that belong to the SBRSA – the two Princetons, the two Hopewells, Pennington and West Windsor – plus parts of South Brunswick.

At the moment, the plant and station will serve only the two Princetons, West Windsor and South Brunswick. No decision has yet been made on whether the upstream communities of Pennington and the two Hopewells, will be included.

Although the single treatment plant concept is reaffirmed in a preliminary assessment by the Roy F. Weston, Inc. firm of consultants, Federal Environmental Protection Agency official Kenneth Stoller says he wants more data before he accepts the report in final form. Paul Kuricik, of the state's Department of Environmental Protection, agrees.

Last week, Mr. Johnson — whose firm, Hornblower & Weeks—Hemphill Noyes, is SBRSA's investment banker, charged with getting the Authority the bond money – met with EPS, DEP and Authority members in the first of several workshops to review the Weston report.

"It may become necessary to request that Federal and state authorities accept that report before we dare go to the bond market," Mr. Johnson says, and he adds:

"That Community Affairs report — a total surprise! And in face of state demands for a regional approach to sewers! People in Pennington must be ready to march on Community Affairs en masse!"

Pennington's sewer problems are regarded as the most acute of any town in the SBRSA.

Off to Bond Market. Mr. Johnson also observes that withdrawal by the state of its 15 percent share means the SBRSA must now go to the bond market for 25 percent of the cost. The Federal grant covers 75 percent.

Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley said Tuesday, when he confirmed loss of the state's 15 percent, that the withdrawal was "fiscally motivated" and had nothing to do with Community Affairs' recommendation that it be dropped.

"Back in March," Mr. Johnson recalls, "state environmental people told us to hurry up! They warned us we would have no priority position until we got the Federal Grant. Well, now we've got the Federal Grant, but in the meantime, what was left of the state's money, has been used up."

The state had been granting that 15 percent to other communities from the $240,000,000 passed by voters in a 1969 bond referendum.

According to tables in the Weston report, loss of the 15 percent state contribution would mean a charge of $48.66 per capita, instead of $38.07. This means that a family of Roads Closed. River Road, Princeton-Kingston Road, Washington Road, Alexander Street, Quaker Road, Mercer Road, Rosedale Road, The Great Road, Shady Brook, South Harrison, 206 North and Randall Road near Terhune were all closed in the Township.

Chief Porter, Police Commissioner William Sutphin, Township engineer Joseph Hodak, and road supervisor John Clausen toured the Township to keep abreast of developments. Residents with high water in their cellars were advised to turn off their electricity.

Anchors Aweigh

Row your boat
Down Bayard Lane
Or travel
Via hydroplane.

The nine-inch rain that fell on the Princeton area Monday was a lot to be sure, but it fell short of the 10.95 inches that fell in a 24-hour period in late August of 1971, when Tropical Storm Doria blew through here.

The arrival of the sun on Tuesday, earlier than forecast, was a welcome sight, and expectations are that it will stay around right through the weekend at least on a part time bases. The high humidity will remain, however, meaning that thundershowers late in the day will be a possibility. Hopefully, they'll just be passing through.

Roadways became rivers of rushing water and then lakes. In the Borough, the intersections of Hulfish and Witherspoon, Nassau and Harrison and Harrison and Hamilton were all impassable, police said. Hamilton was under water from Snowden to Harrison. In nearby Queenston Commons, the water reportedly flooded a few living rooms in the condominium.

Route 206 north was one long disaster. The surface of the road buckled near the Jack & Jill store. Further up, streams on either side became raging torrents, undermining sections of a wire guard rail at the intersection of Arreton Road.

Still further up, a stream between the Eldridge Buick-Pontiac and Z & W Mazda buildings overflowed across 206 and caused traffic to back up for miles. Earlier in the morning at 9:53, a tree fell on a wire at 206 and Arreton. A power line on Mason Drive was reported on fire at 11:14.

Everywhere people had stories to illustrate the depth of the water. Where once had been the Kingston Dam at lower Lake Carnegie was there now only a ripple in the water. The house by the old Kingston Mill was completely surrounded by water and people were canoeing there.

The water was three feet deep on Randall Road ... six feet on U.S. 1 where it dipped under the Dinky overpass. At U.S. 1 and Baker's Basin the water was reported as high as the concrete divider. Route 1 was closed in both directions Monday night at the Penns Neck Circle.

Wonderful Job. Despite the trying conditions, Chief Porter said "everyone involved did a wonderful job." The road department did a tremendous job, he added. "Teamwork is what counts in a situation like this."

Chief Porter, who is pumping out his own cellar, said that he believed the property damage would be high, particularly where homes were flooded in the areas of Meadowbrook, Wheatsheaf Lane and Randall Road.

Monday's beleaguered motorists might draw some satisfaction from this: a section of the accoustical tile ceiling in the court room in Borough Hall, which always leaks in a heavy rain, gave way Monday afternoon leaving a 4 by 4-foot hole. As a result, Monday's weekly traffic court was cancelled.

BACK IN WORLD WAR II...

Reunion of Weathermen. Testing his rain gauge to see how many Bloody Marys it will hold, weatherman David Ludlum began this week to prepare for the arrival here on Friday of 15 men who served with him as weather forecasters during World War II.

The 15 members of Mobile Unit No. 2 of the 12th Weather Squadron, U.S. Air Force, will be in Princeton Friday, Saturday and Sunday as Mr. Ludlum's guests. The group originally had 22 members, but natural attrition has trimmed the number to this weekend's figure.

Members of the unit gather every five years in one city or another, to exchange reminiscences about World War II weather forecasting. Mr. Ludlum suggested Princeton as the '75 spot because of the Bicentennial: some of the Unit had expressed a desire to explore old battlegrounds, and maybe learn about the weather that cold January day of the Battle of Princeton.

The Unit started out in Casablanca, proceeding to Sicily, Salerno, Cassino, France, Germany and into Austria. They were together 31 months.

They did the forecasts for the invasions of Sicily and Salerno and the forecasts for the famous bombing of Cassino. That one was called "Operation Ludlum"-- a weatherman's idea of immortality.

Time Magazine, Newsweek and, in 1950, Paramount News have reported the activities of the Unit.

This weekend, they will pore over maps provided by Firestone library's map room, and will settle arguments from books thoughtfully garnered by Mr. Ludlum from the Princeton Public Library. Plans include dinner at the Nassau Club, a picnic at Washington Crossing, Bloody Marys in the Ludlum living-room Sunday noon, and...

"Perfect weather!"

four would pay $194.64 a year instead of $152.28.

However, increasing use of the system by more and more families, would, in ten years, bring those costs down to $35.80 without state aid, and $28.53 with it. These figures are related to the whole projected system, not to Segment I alone, which is only the plant and the pumping station.

Delay Costly. "There is no question but what delay is costing us: month by month," Mr. Johnson says gloomily, pointing to the $43 million figure in the first application (October, 1971) for Federal money; the $49.9 million in the second (June, 1973) application and the current price-tag for the entire package, which is $65 to $70 million.

Successive applications have been required because of changes in environmental guidelines.

As an example of possible continuing delay, Mr. Johnson points to the fact that there is no provision, yet, for pipes linking the treatment plant to the pumping station. This is because servicing of the upstream towns of Pennington and the Hopewells isn't yet certain, and nobody knows what size pipes to allow for.

"A lender, buying a bond, will say 'When is the cash flow that will pay me back?' " Mr. Johnson continues, "Well, we say 'When the whole system is operating' and he'll reply, 'When is THAT?' "

With acceptance of the grant Tuesday, the Authoritgy voted to instruct Metcalf and Eddy, its engineering firm, to advertise for bids for the treatment plant. Mr. Johnson estimates 75-90 days for bids to be let and received, and final approval received from the EPA. Then, in 90 days, work could start on the treatment plant.

But if the Weston study still isn't in its final stage....

"How much longer can anyone predict, on the basis of delays of the last ten years?" he demands.

He does concede that EPA promises "first priority" consideration for the SBRSA on reviewing the contractors who bid. But then, the spectre of delay haunts him again, and he recalls the recent state law that requires the presence of an archaeologist on a site where digging is to be done.

"The issue now," he believes, "is between those who think current existing pollution is serious enough to proceed immediately, and those who are concerned with potential 'secondary' impacts."

YEDLIN TO ZONING

On "Error." The Housing Authority and its agent, Benedict Yedlin, will go to the Township Zoning Board next Wednesday, July 23, to ask for rectification of what they consider "an error." Zoning officer W.J. Shinn has ruled that the Authority must return to the Zoning Board for use variance and various other approvals because plans for the 100-unit public housing project on Mt. Lucas have Mr. Shinn says, too many changes from the original plans.

Thomas Jamieson, attorney for the Authority and Mr. Yedlin, deny this and will ask the Zoning Board to overrule Mr. Shinn.

Township Committee has been meeting in executive session on neighbors' appeal from the favorable site plan decision granted the Housing Authority by the Planning Board. Committee expects to have its answer by Monday, July 28. The usual second meeting of the month scheduled for July 21, has been postponed to July 28 because Committee won't have a quorum on July 21.

In other matters before the Zoning Board, Alexander Ettl will ask for an interpretation from the board on plans to hold art classes on his Rosedale Road property.

VALUABLES STOLEN

From Parked Car. A Hopewell resident, Mrs. Maria T. Lazaras, 288 Wargo Road, lost a camera and jewelry valued at more than $1,100 last week when her parked car was rifled on Leigh Avenue.

Mrs. Lazaras, who had spent an hour at the nearby Medical Arts Building, told police that when she returned to her car she found it unlocked, the front seat moved and the contents of a console compartment strewn about.

Taken were her 35 mm. camera, two lenses and a flash attachment valued at $420, a cluster pearl pin in a gold setting worth $200 and an 18k gold band with two emeralds and two diamonds valued at $500.

Police said that the car door had been opened with a wire coat hanger or similiar type instrument.

A cassette player valued at $57.50 was taken Thursday by a thief who forced a vent window of a car parked in the Princeton Medical Center lot. Police identified the victim as a Pine Street resident.

Karen McLaughlin, 31 Laurel Road, left her pocketbook on the front seat of her car in the parking area of the University League Nursery School on Broadmead.

When she left fifteen minutes later, she found her pocketbook lying next to the front door of the school. She lost $2.50. Police said that her car had not been broken into. The incident took place Friday afternoon.

Irene Stokes, 120 Jefferson Road, discovered when she arrived home Friday afternoon that a yellow fringe purse had been removed from her pocketbook which had been in the media office at the Valley Road School building from 2 to 3:30. She lost $15.

How Good is Princeton?

Results of the 1974 state tests of New Jersey schools have been released -- maybe for the last time, the budget crisis being what it is -- and TOWN TOPICS will carry a story on these results and the test machinery in next week's issue.

The State Office of Assessment, responsible for the New Jersey State Testing Program, has been eliminated by budget cuts in the state's Department of Education. The tests have been administered three times on a state-wide basis.

Two New York women had their pocketbooks rifled Thursday while they were working at the Creative Theater, 33 Mercer Street.

One victim lost $16, two checks for $122 and $150, $10 in commuter tickets to New York and a gold necklace. The second lost her wallet containing $2 and credit cards.

Y Lockers Rifled. The men from outside the Princeton area were theft victims when someone opened their lockers at the YMCA.

A Green Brook resident lost $50 from his wallet; the second victim from South Bound Brook lost a $70 wristwatch and $8. Both lockers had been locked and their was no sign of forced entry, police said.

A Graduate School student lost a record player valued at $280 when someone forced open a ground floor window to his room last week-- he also lost a silver chain valued at $30 and one record-- and a Massachusetts resident reported the theft of an alternator from his car parked during the weekend in a Palmer Square lot. Replacement cost: $93.

And Princeton's plant thief is still active.

A Lyle Street resident reported four hanging geranium plants taken from her front porch, while a Maclean Street resident told Borough police that five potted plants were missing from her porch.

MONEY BAGS STOLEN

From Craft Cleaners. Two N.J. National Bank canvas money bags, containing $250, were stolen last week from Craft Cleaners, 225 Nassau Street.

Police said that a pane of glass on the east side of the building had been broken to open a window. The bags were hidden inside the shop, they said. Ptl. Victor Fasanella and Sgt. Arthur Gallant investigated.

Ninety-five dollars in cash and $35 in checks were stolen, police report, from an unlocked cash box in an unlocked filing cabinet in an office at 44 Nassau Street. There was no forced entry into the office.

The theft took place between five last Wednesday afternoon and 10 Friday morning.

Taken from the home of Edward L. Anderson, Jr., 9 Ober Road, were a four-speaker stereo system, a pair of binoculars and a Penn-Central railway pass. Their combined value was listed at $912.

According to police, a housesitter found the door slightly ajar when she returned home in the afternoon at 3. She had been away since 12:30 p.m. There was no sign of forced entry.

Someone broke a rear door window to reach in and unlatch the door and enter an old home at 1005 The Great Road. Once inside, the intruder, police said, maliciously broke all the door handles in the house.

Three other small sheds on the property were also entered and ransacked, but police say they have no report of anything missing. The property is owned by William F. Kiefer of Hopewell.

TWENTY BORN

Sons were born to Mr. and Mrs. Michael Greenberger, 121 Lakewood Street, Lakewood; Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Schwartz, 536 Fairfield Road, East Windsor, both on July 7; Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Cereste, 54 Gardenview Terrace, Hightstown; Mr. and Mrs. N.J.C. Vasantkumar, 222-B Eisenhower Street; Mr. and Mrs. Dominick Dito, 11 Greenfield Drive, Allentown, all on July 8.

Also to Mr. and Mrs. Feliciano Albolote, 12 Beechcroft Drive, East Windsor; Mr. and Mrs. William Austin, 4 Wheeler Way; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Winbush, 95 Maplestream, East Windsor, all on July 10; Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Karmazin, 26 Alexander Road, East Brunswick, July 11; Mr. and Mrs. William Dalglish, Mount Lucas Road, and Mr. and Mrs. William Pavlovsky, R.D. 1, both on July 12.

Daughters were born to Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence R. Johnson, 53 Gardenview Terrace, Hightstown; Mr. and Mrs. James Schofield, 42 Oxford Drive, East Windsor, both on July 6; Mr. and Mrs. Jeffrey Cornelius, 5 Harvey Avenue, Yardley, July 7; Mr. and Mrs. Mostafa Genena, 10 Hawthorne Lane, East Windsor; Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah Jones, 128D Northgate Apartments, Cranbury; Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Toner, 50-01 Fox Run Drive, Plainsboro; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Tumolo, 9 Yorkshire Drive, Hightstown, all on July 8.

Also to Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Weiss, Twin River Drive, East Windsor, July 10; and Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Archambo, 166 Maxwell Avenue, Hightstown.

TEN METERS SMASHED

On Witherspoon Street. Ten meters on Witherspoon Street between Quarry and Maclean were smashed last week in vandalism reported by Borough meter man John Jackson.

In another act of vandalism reported by Township police, a rock was thrown against a plate glass door of the mall entrance of the Rug Mart and Ivy Manor Showrooms in the Princeton Shopping Center. It was reported Monday morning by manager Walter Harris.

THE BEST NUMBER to call for classified advertising is 924 2200.

Police Phones Jammed With Calls

It was impossible to keep any kind of tally, but Ptl. William Potts, desk officer for Townsip police during Monday's deluge estimates police answered about 2,000 calls. "Three calls every 30 seconds for four hours," he said. "It didn't let up until five or six o'clock Monday night."

Helping take calls reporting cellars flooded or cars stuck in high water were Chief Frederick Porter, Lt. Michael Lisi, Lt. Richard Steinert, and police secretary Ms. Lillian Young. Ptl. David Funk stopped by to pick up his pay check ... that was a mistake. He was pressed into service answering phones and it was a couple of hours before he finally left.

It was the same for the Borough's desk man, Ptl. William Hunter who estimated at least 1,000 calls came in between 11 and 3 p.m. Helping to man the lines were Mrs. Betty Bodine and police trainee Randy Sutton.

Most were inquiring about the conditions of roads, commented Ptl. Hunter. "How to get out of town, how to get into town." At one point Monday, the only road open to the Borough was 206 South. Closed by high water were U.S. 1, Alexander Street, Washington Road, Rosedale Road and The Great Road.

There's No Bizness Like Show Bizness When School's Out and Summer Is In

If you're between ten and 20 years old and aren't in summer theatre this summer.....well, where ARE you?

The greening of the theatre is summer news this year around Princeton. Like grass under rain, theatre for youth has sprouted, grown and flourished in a way surprising even to the pioneering adults some years back who thought maybe theatre for kids might find fertile ground.

Offerings range from Aristophanes to Superman. Nine-year-olds are in workshops learning theatre games. Teens are following rehearsal schedules that make school year homework look like Mickey Mouse. Even adults are performing in plays directed to young audiences, giving kids something to watch in summer besides reruns on TV.

Here's what's ahead:

"Play It Again, Sam," the Woody Allen comedy, will play this weekend and next in Street Theatre's production. Performance dates and places are: this Thursday, Littlebrook School; this Friday, Burnt Hill Road School, Montgomery Township; this Saturday, Riverside School and this Sunday, Palmer Square. Curtain-time is 8:30. Free admission.

"It's a Bird...It's a Plane...It's Superman!", will be given in the auditorium of West Windsor-Plainsboro High School this Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m. and Saturday also at 2 p.m. by a group of high school students who have come together solely for this one production. Admission is $1.50 for adults, $1 fnr children.

"You, Alice and Me," adapted from "Alice in Wonderland," will have a morning performance this Saturday at 10:30 a.m. in Trinity Church by a Creative Theatre Unlimited east. Admission is $1.50.

Three one-acters (Shaw's "How He lied to Her Husband;" Pfeiffer's "Crawling Arnold" and Bovasso's "Schubert's Last Serenade") Friday, July 25 and Saturday, July 26 by Twilight Theatre, company that gave you Aristophanes' "The Congresswomen" last weekend 185 Nassau, 8 p.m.

"The Potted Princess" (by kids) and "Golden Goose" (for kids) from Summer Intime's company and workshop; late August.

"The Fantasticks" and a story-theatre for kids, by The Twilight Theatre later this summer.

"If You've Seen One Dragon..." Creative Theatre, later.

Four one-acters by Street Theatre, later on.

Of all these, probably the most impressive is The Twilight Theatre, whose high school and young college students have mounted Aristophanes as casually as one would mount a merry-go-round pony and are headed for Bernard Shaw and Jules Pfeiffer.

Twilight's two dozen members worked in a summer repertory theatre and during the school year with Larry Mansier, who teaches drama at the high school. Richard Carlin and Jack Rome, both Oberlin students, began corresponding about a summer theatre in Princeton with Corrine Colman and her brother Kevin, who had the same idea, almost spontaneously. The Colmans are at Dickenson College. Frank Silverstein, now a Yale student, joined them. Both he and young Carlin were eager to direct the Aristophanes, but where?

"We went all over town," Corrine recalls. Finally they approached Princeton University's creative arts department and that's how they got the old Nassau Street School auditorium at 185—where the department is.

"We wrote out a proposal for the University and they accepted— as soon as we got some insurance," Corrine continues, "They've been really great to us."

Each Twilighter put in $5. Parents have donated some wood and paint for sets, but that's all. Members take turns directing, doing "house" chores, posters, sets. The Colmans and Donald Martz are directing the three one-acters, Jane Beard will direct "The Fantastics," Susan Cooper-Smith, Meg Starr, Dinah PoKempner and Nancy Schwellenbach will assemble a story theatre for children.

...And every actor plays many parts: Chris Negus is also doing lights in West Windsor for the "Superman!" company; Jane Beard is stage-managing for them, Walter Broner is designing the "Superman!" set and Rip Pellaton is acting in both companies.

Also in The Twilight Theatre are Liz Fisher, Adrienne Brockway, John Chow, and a cast of thousands too numerous to mention.

WHO'S THAT IN THE MIDDLE? Humpty-Dumpty, of course, silly! With Tweedledum (left) and Tweedledee (right) ... or is it the other way around? Anyhow, he's getting ready for "You, Alice and Me," the Creative Theatre production due this Saturday at 10:30 a.m. at Trinity Church, 33 Mercer. (It's really jon Tenney, dressed up like an egg, with Alice Wyckoff and Charlene Wyckoff holding him up.)

games and adventures. Like "If You've Seen One Dragon...", it will be available for tour to day-camps, recreation programs and schools in July, August and September.

Street Theatre's insecurity has been financial. A victim of Princeton's municipal budget crisis, it has scraped together a $2,000 budget founded on $1,000 from the Princeton Youth Fund, augmented by money raised in door-to-door solicitation and the sale of extraneous equipment. But they've still got that mobile theatre.

In "Play It Again, Sam," John Wible, the Woody Allen character, is a PHS senior; Diane Bouffard as his ex-wife, just graduated from eighth grade; Joe Bolster, who plays Bogart, is in college. Annette Cascone and Geoff Becker are PHS students. Debbie Bellow is directing this play, and Street Theatre itself.

News of the Theatres

The West Windsor group of about 60 members was put together by Michael Godnick, a WW resident and '73 graduate of Princeton High who has worked at McCarter for five years in public relations, and wants to go into theatre public relations.

He approached the West Windsor Recreation Commission whose members agreed it would be nice to have summer theatre. Rounding up high school students, he decided to give "Superman!" because it's a genial musical that's good for every member of the family.

"The kids I've got are super-enthusiastic," he reports, with his own enthusiasm, "We're building a proscenium in the school auditorium, for example, because it doesn't have one. We're building sets on drivways and lawns, and the Baptist Church in Penns Neck has given us free rehearsal space."

"I didn't know about all these other theatre groups when I started— it was my own original idea!" he says, "It's competition, I guess, but there are lots of people from both communities— Princeton and West Windsor— to make up audiences."

Mr. Godnick's $1,200 budget will come from ticket sales, and that's the only backing he's got. "Superman!" will be his only production this year.

With a musical on his hands, he's had to assemble what he calls a "mini-orchestra." It has John Greco (bass); Susan Greco (drums); Joan Metzger, (piano-moog-director); Ellen Ransky (flute-clarinet) and Jim Snedeker (clarinet-tenor sax).

For "You, Alice and Me," director Amie Brockway has combined the Wonderland story wit other children's fantasies, using the young actors in Creative Theatre's Children's Theatre Troupe.

Mrs. Brockway could be called the grande dame of young people's theatre except that she doesn't look the part. Street Theatre, now venerable and secure— more or less— in its fifth summer, was her idea. Membership lists in these young people's groups invariably include a Brockway: Adrienne in Twilight Theatre and Creative Theatre, Ginny in Creative Theatre.

Her adaptation of Alice, will involve the audience in songs,

"WHY, AUNTIE! WHAT BRISTLY WHISKERS YOU HAVE!" Just the thorns on the rose, dear, just the thorns. Auntie is Eric Zwemer, all gussied up for his part in "Charley's Aunt," due on Summer Intime's stage this weekend.

News of the Theatres

Street Theatre has a workshop for kids as young as 12. They learn vocal production, jazz dancing, silk-screen and design, and will in, in workshops tn come, learn directing, improvisation and acting.

Summer Intime has its own kids workshop this summer, for the first time. Under Winnie Holzman's guidance, eight ten and eleven-year-olds are learning relaxation exercises, movement to music ("move the way the music makes you feel"....") and will shortly begin to assemhle "The Potted Princess" (not what you think: she's imprisoned in a pot and only the worthiest in the land can get her out. He also gets to marry her

It's a play written for children's workshops, but adapted by Ms. Holzman "for more action and less romance."

So, savc your programs. The eithth-grader you see this summer may win an Obie in 1984.

"CHARLEY'S AUNT"

For Summer Visit. The University was run hy a man named Wilson, ladies could be invited only to tea and chaperoned even then, students hrought servants to school ... it was Princeton in 1908, and that's the scene chosen by Summer Intime for "Charley's Aunt," the enduring old farce by Brandon Thomas.

It will open this Thursday at 8:30 p.m. and will play Friday and Saturday at the same time, and Sunday at 7:30, all in Murray Theatre on campus.

A pair of desperate undergraduates (Jim Shankman and Joe Harbeson) must find a chaperone in order to entertain the girls they love (Kimherly Myers and Darcy Jannerone) at tea. When the expected aunt fails to arrive from Brazil to do the chaperoning, they persuade a reluctant classmate (Eric Zwemer) to impersonate her.

It goes on from there, right up to the arrival of the real aunt (Anne Sheldon). There are also the father of one of the students (Richard Ferrugio), his old sweetheart (Winnie Holzman) and the valet himself (Fred Sheldon) who surveys all and is surprised by nothing.

INN CABARET MOVES

To Bigger Room. No room for them at the inn ... that's what some night-clubbers have found, trying to see a performance of the new Inn Cabaret at the Nassau Inn on Friday nights. Now, Cabaret has moved from the Ships Room to the big Prince William Room, and director Dan Berkowitz thinks the larger size won't dilute the intimate cabaret atmosphere one little bit.

Performances are at 9:30 and 11:30 every Friday. Prices are $2, and seats will be sold on a first-come, first-served basis when the doors are open half an hour before the show. So get there at 9 and 11. Bar service is available throughout the evening.

This Friday, there will be some original comedy material by Nat Hartshorne and Joan Goldstein. Musical performers will be Roo Brown, Cynthia Gooding, Joan Gallos, Suzie Bertin and Joan Lucas. Don Boroson is in charge of music, Dan Berkowitz is master of ceremonies.

THE MONARCH OF THE SEA: The doughty admiral, Sir Joseph Porter, straight from Gilbert and Sullivan's "H.M.S. Pinafore." It's Lee H. Bristol all dressed to be piped aboard for the production in Washington Crossing this Friday and Saturday (next weekend, too).

Midnight Cabaret will feature music of times present this Saturday midnight.

Original music by Robert Davidson, young Princeton composer, will be performed by a long list of performers, including the composer himself. Midnight Cabaret is part of Summer Intime and audiences gather after the Saturday night stage show in the lower room adjacent to Murray Theatre. Admission is $2, but only $1.50 if you show your ticket from the Summer Intime Drama Series.

Performers this Saturday will be Denise Seutter, Joseph Harbeson, Eric Zwemer, Bebe Neuwirth, Peggy Bayer --- and Robert Davidson. Adam Roth will be host.

ON WITH THE CLASSICS

Films, at McCormick. Another trio of classic films will be shown early next week at McCormick Art Museum under the signature of Summer Intime.

"Gaslight", from 1944, stars Ingrid Bergman and Charles Boyer and features the Hollywood debut of Angela Lansbury. A psychological melodrama, directed by George Cukor. Monday night.

"Mr. Deeds Goes to Town," is the Gary Cooper classic about the "pixilated" small town boy who inherits twenty million and uses it to help people. Jean Arthur is the hard-boiled reporter who falls in love with him. Frank Capra directed. Tuesday night.

"The Seagull," stars Vanessa Redgrave, James Mason and Simone Signoret in Cheknov's drama.

All films start at 7:30 p.m. Admission is $1.25 and no reservations are necessary.

THE QUEEN'S NAVEEEE....

"Pinafore" to N.J. Washington had enough troubles in the area around Washington Crossing State Park and if he'd encountered a ship from the Royal Navy he just might have sworn a big, big "D!"

It's "H.M.S. Pinafore," of course, due to dock this Friday and Saturday at the Open Air Theatre. The Gilbert and Sullivan favorite will play again next Thursday, Friday and Saturday, July 24, 25 and 26.

Lee H. Bristol Jr., who has made almost a second career of playing G. & S., will be Sir Joseph Porter, the armchair admiral who is "hardly ever" sick at sea. Mr. Bristol has also played Ko-Ko in "The Mikado," the Lord High Chancellor in "Iolanthe," the Duke of Plaza-Toro in "The Gondoliers" and General Stanley in "Pirates of Penzance." He's also performed in Gilbert and Sullivan with the Village Light Opera Company of New York.

A former president of Westminster Choir College, Mr. Bristol is a member of the board of the New York Philharmonic, a lay reader in the Episcopal Church and the author of several books, including hymnals. He is also known as an entertainer.

About that naval vessel. The Open Air Theatre people say that "Pinafore" will be presented to the audience stern first. By having the ship's stern face the audience and the bow pointed straight into the hillside behind the stage, the designers have managed to have mainmast sails hide most of the surrounding trees.

HIGH—ENERGY SOUNDS

For Summer Concert. The high-energy sounds of the Jam Masters will prevail in Pardee Field this Thursday evening in the next of the free community concerts called "Summer Sounds."

Jam Masters will begin at 7:30 and continue until 9:30. The audience is asked to bring blankets and camp chairs.

IT'S NEW To Us

NEW IN HOPEWELL

Framing and Furniture. Anyone who has ever had a picture framed well knows that before the job is finished this initial investment may easily be doubled or tripled. The cost of custom moldings and individual assembly of each frame can quickly become expensive.

Therefore late last winter Tom Deverell and Vivi Wickenden, Pennington residents, decided to provide an alternative to this situation by opening D & D Frames, a shop specializing in stock frames.

"These are inexpensive frames, but not cheap," said Mr. Deverell. Many different molding styles are available, most of them in solid wood, and because they are mass produced by machine in standard sizes, the ultimate cost is less then half that of a comparable custom frame.

The selection ranges from tiny frames just the size for small photographs or for groupings of pictures, $3 and $4, to huge 24 x 36-inch frames such as a wide rustic grey wooden one, $25.50.

Several Styles Available. Some of the styles available include a brown wood with a soft tomato red band, a very wide gold toned molding with a green band and inside linen line, a carved wooded frame with an oval opening, and a simple brown one with a narrow gold edge, $4 to $30.

While you can take the frame home and do the job yourself, Mr. Deverell told us that about 80 percent of their customers ask D & D to cut the mat and assemble the finished product.

And if you can't find a stock frame that suits your picture, they also have a wide choice of custom moldings. Again D & D has attempted to keep the cost reasonable, and so it it has not invested in yards of moldings but instead carrys samples. This way it can order exactly what you select, and have the frame ready in a few days.

D & D also carries metal section frames (the favorite of many artists as they can quickly be rearranged into new sizes) and the Dax plastic box frames.

Because framing is their business Mr. Deverell and Mrs. Wickenden have used the walls of their store for a gallery as a means of promoting works of art. Located in what was originally a candy factory, the building with its 14 huge windows and red brick walls is ideal for this purpose. The lighting is excellent and you have plenty of room to view everything. Currently on exhibit are the paintings and graphics of Elizabeth Schippert.

Located at 53 Railroad Place in Hopewell, D & D Frames is open Tuesday through Saturday from 10 until 5.

WITH THE ACCURACY of a past tool and cabinet maker, Tom Deverell carefully figures the exact size needed to accent this print and to fit it in one of the stock frames found at D & D Frames.

18th Century Furniture. Hopewell has another new store called Dario James, which although new to this town is actually part of a long history of fine 18th century furniture. It all started 35 years ago with Carl N. Rist's small upholstery shop in New Britain, Pa.

As his business grew, he expanded into furniture and interior design until today when there are three stores-- the original one, Carl N. Rist & Son at Peddler's Village, and the new Darin James.

The parent store is well known to many Princeton area residents, and it is for this reason that owner James Swartley (Carl Rist's son-in-law) decided to add a more convenient location. He felt that this area was in need of an 18th century shop and that Hopewell's charm was perfectly suited to this period.

While not as large, Darin James offers all the services of the parent store-- full interior design including wallpaper, fabrics, draperies, re-upholstering (still done by Mr. Rist), rugs, furniture, accessories and whatever else you need. Betty James, an ASID member who was responsible for the dining room of the Junior League's Showcase House this year, is here Tuesdays and Thursdays to assist you.

The design service is free with a $1,500 purchase. This may seem expensive at first glance, but if you are re-doing an entire room, it is not difficult to spend this amount. Once you have purchased $2,000 worth of merchandise there is a 10 percent discount on all future furniture expenses whether it be tomorrow or five years from now.

Until August Darin James is having a grand opening sale with a 10 percent saving on all special orders and 15 and 20 percent savings on all floor items. Currently in the store are several Williamsburg adaptation pieces by Kittinger. We particularly liked a narrow slant-top mahogany desk with a fold-out front and lots of small drawers and the mahogany drop-leaf table, $805 and $595.

Other choices include a 1776 Chippendale sofa upholstered in a pale blue damask by Southwood, $860; an oval dining table with cabriole legs, by Councill Craftsmen $770 and there are matching chairs; a four-poster mahogany double bed complete with a canopy by Kindel, $545; and for a more country look, a large hutch by Henkel-Harris in a cherry finish, $1089.

Our favorite item was a hand-crafted Chippendale mahogany mirror by Al Cooper of Bucks County. It has a carved shell at the top, narrow gold trim around the mirror and each one is signed by the artist. If you like, he will specially engrave the back and it is difficult to imagine a nicer gift.

The accessories include lamps, the Williamsburg monthly flowers framed in three sizes and Royal Doulton's balloon man and lady. Also, for those who hunt high and low for it, Guardsman Polish is here.

Darin James, located at 33 West Broad Street in Hopewell, is open from 9:30 to 5 Monday through Saturday.

ASSOCIATE APPOINTED By Architectural Firm. The firm of Holt-Morgan-Schwartz, 20 Nassau Street, has named William D. Wakefield, Fox Run Drive, Plainsboro, as an associate. Mr. Wakefield is a graduate of Princeton High School and received his Bachelor of Architecture degree from the University of Kentucky in 1973.

He has been with the firm since graduation, and had worked part time with its predecessor firm, Holt & Morgan, Architects, since 1967. He was granted his license to practice architecture in New Jersey in April. Mr. Wakefield has been instrumental in several of the firm's recent commissions including work for Rutgers, The State University; multi-family housing in Princeton, Lawrenceville, and New York State; and private residential projects.

William D. Wakefield

RAPID GROWTH MARKED By Princeton Savings. Exceptionally rapid growth during the first six months of 1975 set the trend at Princeton Savings, in sharp contrast to the activity recorded the year before, according to William H Boozer, Jr., president, as he released the association's mid-year financial statement.

By June 30, assets had risen past the $50 million mark, to a total of $54,542,681, up 11 percent in the past 12 months.

Savings climbed dramatically, up 20 percent for the year, to a total of $50,961,243 as compared to $42,422,051 on June 30, 1974. Of the $8,539,192 gain, $7,858,792 is attributable "to the strong rise in the first half of 1975, Mr. Boozer said.

Dividends amounting to $1,421,529 were distributed to the institution's savers in this six month period, surpassing the total dividend figure for the entire year of 1971, which had, at that point, reached a record $1,285,018.

"Encouragingly, mortgage loan activity quickened with the housing market displaying signs of recovering from its severe and lengthy decline. Our mortgage loan portfolio totaled $47,780,113 as of June 30, up $7,473,331 from a year ago," Mr. Boozer added.

Boozer concluded announcing plans for a new branch office in Plainsboro. Headquartered at 132 Nassau Street, the firm maintains one branch office in Lawrenceville.

PCH is "Over The Hump."
To the Editor of Town Topics:

Because of the publicity resulting from the problems Princeton Community Village has faced since it opened its rental office two months ago, the PCH Board of Directors believes that the public should know that we are "over the hump."

We are now in a position to fulfill our promise to the town -- to provide Princeton residents with much-needed, reasonably-priced housing, and produce a community in which its tenants and Princeton can take great pride.

Our renewed confidence is founded on twn important developments; one, we have a dedicated management team that cares enough to devote extraordinary time, effort and thought to applicant needs; and two, the recent significant increase in allowable incomes of tenants granted by HUD.

During the past few weeks, there has been a marked renewal of interest from Princeton residents and Princeton emplnyees who originally filed preliminary applications with us and are enthusiastic about the advantages PCH affords them. Already, since the announcement of the boost in income limits, many applicants find they qualify for the subsidized rents and will process new applications.

We are grateful for the confidence the community has always given us and for the intensive efforts of Mayor Bleiman on our behalf. This summer, our goals will become a living reality as Princeton Community Village is gradually occupied. We are also grateful to the nfficials of HUD, both in Camden and Washington, for their prompt action in response to oor request.

MARIANNE REES
President, PCH

Community Generosity.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

On behalf of the Princeton Chapter of AFS (American Field Service), we wish to thank the Princeton Community for its generosity in opening its homes and hearts to the visiting foreign students who spent the five days here on their final bustrip before they returned to their native lands.

Thirty-six students were housed in 23 homes and it was a rewarding experience for all. We wish to thank the Princeton Recreational Dept. for granting free passes to the Community Park Pool, to thank Princeton University and the Orange Key guides who gave a tour of the campus to the students, to thank the Princeton Day School for the use of its facilities, and to thank the 23 families who gave of themselves, and the many people who worked on the planning of the parties and activities.

Unanimously, the students left Princeton saying what a great place it was.

Clarification Offered
To the Editor of Town Topics:

An article in your current issue about the hearing before the Township Committee on July 7th gives the impression that a lady had the floor and was speaking when I interrupted her and "shouted 'She has no right!' to speak."

Actually I was speaking (the first speaker) when the lady rose and stated that she wanted to correct something I had said. I protested to the Chairman that, being an appellant stating his case at a hearing, I should be allowed to finish without interruption.

When the Chairman and the lady conferred and she then continued her remarks, I said "Mr. Chairman, I will be polite but I do not concede that she has a right to interrupt me."

I never shouted, nor was I angry as your article implied.

Young Princetonian Finds New Way To Learn While Living Six Months in a Village in Kenya

A FRIENDLY KENYA NATIVE: Jack Gulick holds -- more or less -- a lion cub on the "Born Free" farm. Jack visited the spot where "Born Free" was filmed during his three-month learning visit to Kenya.

Learn anthropology by living in a Kenya village and helping villagers make bricks for their school ... learn Swahili by bargaining for your food in the marketplace ... learn ornithology by studying the flamingoes on a lake in the Rift Valley ... learn marine biology by skin-diving in the Indian Ocean...

"It's just such a fantastic and different way to learn, and we were learning all the time. I know so much now!"

Jack Gulick holds the 80-page journal he kept of his semester in Kenya, touches with wonder the six-inch ostrich egg blown out for him by a Kenyan, wraps the sarong-like kicoy around his hipless hips to show how a man can go formal or informal in a kicoy in Kenya, and glows with excitement as he talks about the spear that rests against the fireplace in his Mountain Avenue home.

And he will listen --- but not for long, because he wants to talk about Kenya again --- to his older sister Anne, who is eagerly planning the semester she will spend this fall in Greece under the same program.

Jack, now a junior at Princeton High, spent last fall in Kenya in the Intercultural Action Learning Program (Interalp). Anne, a junior at Rollins College, will be in Greece this fall under the same program. Interalp, founded by educator Mimi Summerskill, has offices in Princeton at 126 Alexander.

Out of the Classroom. The purpose of Interalp, in Mrs. Summerskill's words, is "to get kids out of the classroom when they're still very curious about the world, and for them to go and learn --- not as ambassadors or tourists, but by doing and living."

The idea is similar to the American Field Service student exchange program, except that Interalp students don't live in middle-class families and attend local schools. They go out into the field, in a kind of reverse Peace Corps, learning from the native population, living with farmers and working families and --- Interalp hopes --- acting as positive ambassadors to counteract the negative feelings so many people in other countries have about citizens of the United States.

Jack Gulick must have been such an ambassador. Like his treasured spear, he is tall, slim, poised and a-quiver for action.

"If you're open and friendly, it's wonderful in the market. The people are very sensitive: they knew right away I wanted to be treated like an African, and they got to know me because I went to the market often, bargained for fresh tomatoes, pineapples --- 14 cents each, but we'd been told they expected you to bargain, and I was clever enough to pay only 7 cents. And always they are smiling and laughing, and they want to shake hands after you buy. I found if you're friendly, you get along so much better."

The 11 students in Jacks' group included two Kenyans. They and the adult teacher assigned to the group taught the nine state-side students rudimentary Swahili for marketing --- "so we wouldn't get ripped off in the market. You HAVE to bargain: they expect it."

Marketing was done in the remote village of Isiolo where the students helped villagers make bricks for their school.

"You take two bags of cement, six wheelbarrows of sand and two of gravel, walk half a mile to the waterhole in the hot mid-day sun, shovel the mix into a form, slam down the cover to squish water out of it, the brick comes out and you put it out to dry. Very crumbly and about the size of a cinderblock. All of us --- boys and girls --- did this."

Here, and in another village (Baragoi) where they helped dig the foundation for a Catholic school, and indeed throughout Kenya, they ate native food.

"We slaughtered our own goats. They were gifts from the people whose school we were working on. Our two Kenyans knew how to slaughter and showed us. I didn't participate in the killing, but I did help butcher.

Camelburgers! "And camelburgers! I was told to grind up this meat, and I did, not knowing what it was ... we had meat grinders and gear in an English Ford van and two VW Kombis ... and then we ate it. Delicious! I'd like to have camelburgers again. Then we ate chipati ... flour and oil baked into a dry, flat pancake and covered with a mix of boiled vegetables."

Woven in and around living and working was living and learning. For five weeks, the group camped at Lake Nakuru along the upper wall of the Rift Valley, studying with John Hopcraft, ornithologist and conservationist, who is a citizen of Kenya and founder of a school of conservation for young Africans.

The students attended lectures by resident scientists in anthropology and ornithology, and spent three days in the tea plantations exploring every phase of operation, from planting and harvesting to factory processing.

They also got themselves into shape for an assault on Mt. Kenya, an adventure Jack Gulick will remember forever.

"You got headaches and it was hard going from the altitude: five steps and then stop to pant. But we got to this point, 16,355 feet high and you can stand and see the jagged mountains and the steep slopes below you. On the very highest point!"

"This village of Baragoi was ultra-simple, primitive, no

What should you do in case of an accident? Keep cool. Make your brain recite for you the following steps: Send for a doctor at once. Stop bleeding and cover wounds. In case of a fracture, apply a splint. Keep by-standers at a distance. Make your actions gentle and quiet. Loosen the collar, waistband or belt. Keep the victim warm with extra blankets, coats or other coverings. These days the rule is generally not to move the victim of an accident until a physician can make sure what damage has been done.

Does your pharmacist explain the doctors directions and point out things to do, or not to do, while using various medications? If not, then it's time you started using FORER PHARMACY, 160 Witherspoon, for your complete family's prescription needs. A pharmacist who has your confidence awaits you at Forer's... Phone 921-7287.

water, in the middle of nowhere, and then an all-day drive clear to Nairobi. That instant change! From primitive to city, like THAT! You saw Nairobi and suddenly you realized how paved the U.S. is!"

"Never a Day Wasted." In Kenya's capital city, "very clean and very modern", the students spent two weeks learning the history of the country, visiting museums, traveling to Nairobi National Park, hearing governmental officials.

"There never was a day with nothing in it, never a day wasted because we were learning, learning all the time. I lived, in Nairobi, with a young man who had left his parents' house, although he ate there. This is a tribal thing, the young man leaving his home. I learned so many things like that. How the women do all the hard, manual labor. They've just lately gotten men to do road work. They've always been just warriors."

The Tsavo Game Reserve at Voi for one week in the park's teaching facility showed Jack and his friends about African game — including scorpions, a giant beetle and lizards. Then the group traveled to the coast, for three weeks in Malindi for live lectures on marine biology, swims from the flat beaches, visits to the 10th-century Gede ruins, visits to the town of Mombasa.

Jack had read a great deal about Kenya before going there, "and I was glad I had. Things made sense, and people didn't have to explain things to me, the way they did to kids who hadn't read ahead of time."

It was only in June of last year that Jack heard about Interalp. His mother saw a newspaper article about the program and showed it to him. His two older sisters and his mother "convinced" him, as he puts it, that he out to go. After that, he did the groundwork himself, making curriculum and credit arrangements with Princeton High, handling the negotiations with Interalp.

Coming back was an adventure, too, in a way.

"What an awful shock! I was appalled by the plasticness, the fastness of life here. And the cruel way people treat each other! In Kenya, people have a light, breezy humor. Here, people are cruel and sarcastic."

About the spear ... Jack bought it from its maker, who sent the wood and metal shaft straight and true, right into the wall of a store, to prove the spear "worked." Ordinary tourist stores says Jack with polite scorn, usually sell spears that won't go straight.

Would he go back? "I could live there," he nods, "I know my way around."

HUMOROUS SHOW OPENS

At Jinglestone Gallery. The Jinglestone Gallery in Sergeantsville, has opened a special summer show called "Fun and Fantasy," which displays the humorous, whimsical, and fantastical side of six artists.

The show will include paintings, drawings, collage, graphics, sculpture, and pottery. Participating artists are Beth Darling, Joseph Gardner, Laszlo Matulay, Reina Nieland, Stanley, Popick, and Barbara Schaff.

Gardner, Matulay, Nieland, and Schaff are represented in private and museum collections across the country; Jinglestone is introducing Beth Darling and Stanley Popick in their first gallery exhibition, although both have been prize winners in area shows the past two years.

Jinglestone Antiques, located in the same building, carries American (and some English) period, country, and primitive pieces of the 18th and 19th centuries.

Sergeantsville is located midway between Flemington and Stockton, at the blinker light, on Route 523. It is open Wednesday through Sunday from 12 until 5 p.m.

LAPIDUS IS VICTOR

At Forest Hills. Jay Lapidus, 149 Galbreath Drive, in his most impressive tournament performance ever, last week swept both the boys 16 singles and douhles championships at Forest Hills. The event was a nationally-sanctioned Eastern Tennis Association tournament with the finals played in center court of famous Forest Hills Tennis stadium.

Jay won his first six matches easily, losing only 15 games. In the finals he met his old nemesis Philadelphia's Murray Robinson, ranked No. 4 nationally and No. 1 in the 14s, 16s and 18s of the Middle States Tennis Association. Robinson had not lost a match in Middle States competition in four years.

Lapidus started poorly against Rohinson, losing the first set 6-0 and was down 2-0 in the second when the tide turned. He won the second set, 6-4, the winning point a perfect drop shot off a serve.

The third set see-sawed back and forth to 5-5. Twice Lapidus came from 0-40 to win games. Then at 5-5, Jay won his serve and quickly hroke Rohinson to win the nearly three-hour long match, 7-5.

In doubles play, Lapidus and Robinson powered their way past every other team on their way to the championship.

Jay will next enter the National Cly Court Championships in Jackson, Miss.; the Western Open in Springfield, Ohio, and the Boys National in Kalamazoo, Mich. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Lapidus.

FIRMENICH LOSES TWO

Drops To Third Place. In first place and undefeated in the National Division of the Princeton Business Softball league last week, Firmenich found itself in third place this week as the First National Bank of Princeton took both ends of a double header 4-2 and 12-4 to put FNB in a tie with ETS for first place.

First National did it by jumping off to a three to one lead in the first inning of the first game, and playing good defensive ball for the remainder of the night to hold off Firmenich. All the scoring was done on good hitting by both sides, as the longest balls hit all evening were three doubles by first national, two of them by Wes Cawley.

Dick Embley batted three for four in both games, as did Jim Bradley and Ralston Hedrick in the second game, and Cawley placed three perfect safeties in the second also to cap the twin win for pitcher Malcolm Rogers.

Meanwhile, in the American Division, McGraw-Hill moved into a tie for first with Norelco by defeating them 11-5. Most notable in that game were home runs by Mike Beauchemin, Bobby Wood, and winning pitcher Chet Rue.

Educational Testing Service defeated Forrestal 19-8 in a high hitting game which featured Pete Simonelli's second incredible performance in as many weeks. Simonelli hit three for five, all three homers, and batted in eight runs.

Ed Willis had a five for five night, with Nick Chantese's four for five and John Barone's three for four giving winning pitcher Chris Wynings all the support he needed. Ingersoll Rand won their first game of the season over Princeton Day School 14-11 with a homer by Clint Olson and three RBI's by Bob Higman. Winning pitcher Bill Merrill served up one home run ball to PDS's Bob Hoffman, and gave Tom DeVito a four for four batting night in the close match.

Bert Anderson's three for three and Howie Green's two for three with a homer helped pitcher Tiny Bowers take Cities Service to a 10-5 victory over RCA(A), and matching three for four hitting by Bob Cowell and Lee Neuwirth with two homers by Cowell and one by Neuwirth helped Institute For Defense Analysis defeat ERC 17-6.

GFDL got all of their runs in the sixth inning including three runs on a triple by Steve Kenety to down Squibb 13-3. John King batted four for four to lend support to pitcher Russ Sinclair's seven hitter. And finally in regular league play, United Jersey Ranks put away Mathematica 8-3, three of UJB's runs coming off the three for four hitting of Frank Cool

In the third annual all-star game, a three-run homer by Norelco's Don Witt in the top of the seventh put the American Division out front 14-11, but it was not enough as the National Division fought back with four runs in the bottom of the eighth, the tieing and winning runs crossing the plate on a hit by PDS's Tom DeVito, winning the game 15-14.

SPORTS FANS!
I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

Brought to you

By John Bernard

If Rod Carew leads the American League in batting at the end of this season, did you know that he will become only the fourth man in history to win four straight big league batting titles... Carew led the league in hitting in 1972, '73 and '74... The only others who have ever won four straight batting titles in the majors are Honus Wagner, Ty Cobb and Rogers Hornsby.

\+ + +

Here's an oddity about unassisted triple plays in big league baseball... Jim Cooney pulled one on May 30, 1927 and John Neun made one on May 31, 1927-- thus there were two in two days-- but then there wasn't another one for 41 years!... The next unassisted triple play in the majors after the two in two days in 1927 was in 1968 by Ron Hansen.

\+ + +

Strangely enough, the Washington Redskins of the National Football League during the last four seasons have a record of 33 wins and 5 losses in games played in stadiums that have real grass-- while at the same time they have a record of only 7 wins and .17 losses playing in stadiums that have artificial turf!

The Princeton team wasted no time in defeating Hightstown, 14-2, scoring in every inning of an abbreviated game. John Madden gave up just two hits and one earned run to boost his record to 3-1-1.

Princeton jumped quickly to a 5-0 lead as it sent ten batters to the plate in the top of the first inning. Paul Soderman doubled to lead off and Eric Jahn and Greg Robinson added singles, while Scott Thompson, Dave Robinson, and Madden all walked to give Princeton a comfortable lead.

Princeton picked up two more runs in the second, on a double by Jahn and singles by Thompson and Greg Robinson. In the third, Princeton scored another as Jahn drove in Dave Seagers who had walked and advanced on Dave Robinson's single.

Princeton PBA added another run in the fourth when Dave Walker smashed a triple and scored on a pinch-hit single by Mike Shillaber. In the fifth inning five more runs gave it a ten-run lead.

Nini Gets Win. Lawrence became Princeton's twelth victim as Dana Nini captured his fourth victory, scattering six hits and fanning six for a 5-1 win. For the first three innings Nini and Lawrence pitcher Bob Bailey locked themselves in a pitcher's duel.

In the fourth Princeton took a 1-0 lead, which it never relinquished, when Scott Thompson, Greg Robinson, and Jim LaPlaca all singled. The lead increased to 2-0 as Eric Jahn singled in the fifth inning, stole second, reached third on a passed ball and scored on an attempt to catch Thompson stealing.

Princeton scored three more times in the seventh.

Nini had his bid for a no-hitter spoiled in the bottom of the seventh as Lawrence combined a pair of walks with a single and a double.

10 DOWN 4 TO GO

For Engine No. 1. With four games remaining in the season, Engine Co. 1 has a chance to be the first team to go undefeated since Roma Eterna in 1971. No. 1 won three games last week for a perfect 10-0 record and a three-game lead over the Elks and Engine Co. 3, which are battling for second place in the PYBA Little League.

No. 1 came from behind in the last inning to spoil a strong effort by the Eagles, which led by as many as eight runs, in gaining a 14-13 victory. Tim Hunt was the winning pitcher in relief and aided his own cause with two hits, one a double. Brent Robinson hit a home run, Paul Momberger and Kevin Johnson doubled, and Owen Robertson slammed a double and a triple.

The losers were led by Jeff Skillman's three hits, one a double, and Jason Petrone, who had two hits, while Aaron Gross had five hits, two of them for extra bases. Mike Leahy hit a home run.

Next No. 1 defeated second-place Elks, 7-2, as Brent Robinson struck out 13 and Judd Petrone, Tim Hunt, and Owen Robertson joined him in getting two hits. Jeff Suber had two hits and Rich Landauer doubled in the losing effort.

No. 1 gained its third win of the week with an 8-1 win over U.A. Local 380.

U. A. Local 380 combined the pitching efforts of James Noble and Josh Miller, who struck out 14 and allowed just one hit between them, a triple by Billy Perna to gain a 7-3 win over PIASC. Miller had three hits and McManus doubled to lead the victors.

Local 380 also outslugged Post 76, 13-11, as James Noble hammered two home runs and singled to help win his own game.

The Elks picked up a pair of victories as they rallied to beat Post 76 and trounced the Eagles. Against Post 76, the Elks were paced by Dave Hill's three RBIs and double and Rich Landauer, who also doubled.

Things were simpler against the Eagles as the Elks won, 17-5. Reid Horovitz tossed a three-hitter and also collected two hits. Paul Krasstoff had three hits and Chris Henkel and Hill each had two to round out the Elk attack. John Denny had two hits and Jason Petrone one to account for the Eagles' three hits.

Fourteen Strikeouts. Engine Co. 3 gained three wins to move into a tie for second place. No. 3 defeated Roma Eterna, 11-4, led by Dan Kirton's 14 strike outs. Kyle Simpson had a home run and Dan Miller, Greg McGuinn, and Kirton all tripled for the winners. Greg Allen doubled and Steve MacDonald had two hits for the losers.

Against the Eagles, Steve Johnson was the winning pitcher, striking out nine and rapping two hits. No. 3's third win was by forfeit over PIASC.

Roma Eterna defeated PIASC, 8-3, with Jon Kandell getting the win. He was backed by Steve MacDonald's home run, Dave Yim's triple, Rich Diefenderfer's two hits, and doubles by Jim McLaughlin and John Briggs. For PIASC, Billy Perna homered and Matt Tamasi singled.

Post 76 squeaked by Roma Eterna, 9-8, in extra innings.

NASSAU CLUB WINNER

In Off-Year Championships. Defending champion Nassau Swim Club used its superior depth to win the Princeton Area Swimming and Diving 1975 Off Year Championships held Thursday and Friday at the Flemington-Raritan municipal pool.

Nassau defeated Valley Swim Club, its nearest competitor, 252-184. In all, 19 teams competed in 64 events. "It was a pretty tight meet going into the relays but then we began to pull away," commented Nassau Swim coach Bruce Nystrom. "We just had more depth and that helped us in the relays."

The winning Nassau team captured three individual first-place championships. Mary Bolster, won the 17-and-under 100-yard individual medley. Paul Sally won the 11-and-under 50-yard breaststroke and Pierre Coutin won the 17-and-under 50-yard backstroke.

Second place finishers from the Nassau team included Val Van Horn, Susan Harris, John Healy, Peter Smith, Sue Danielson and Bolster, Coutin and Sally again.

All in the Family. An interesting footnote in the Nassau win is the number of family members that contributed: Beth, Jon and Michael Alberts; Mary, Charley, Libby, John and Peter Bolster; John and James Chow; Pierre and Marc Coutin; Sue and Sandy Danielson; Ruth, Joel, Abigail and Susan Harris; Ann and John Healy; Liz and Cathy Langridge; Steve and Paul Sally; Barb, Val, Li and Van Van Horn; Jeremy and Johanna Wilson.

Other Princeton area teams participating were Stony Brook Brooktree, Pennbrook, Pine Brae, Cranbury, Community Park, Lawrenceville, Hopewell Valley and Bedens Brook.

An "off year" tournament is for swimmers at the bottom of their respective division in terms of age and who theoretically would be expected to have an off-year competitively. The off-year meet gives them an opportunity to race against swimmers of similiar age.

AREA PLAYERS EXCEL

In Tennis Tournaments. Mark Goodman, one of the up and coming young tennis players from Princeton, last week defied the seedings to reach the finals of the West Jersey 12-and-Under Championships held in Moorestown.

En route to the finals against the top seed, David Cantor of Philadelphia, the unseeded Goodman toppled two seeded players, both of whom were above him in the Middle States Tennis Association rankings last year. This week Mark hopes to sharpen his game in the Princeton Junior Championships and looks forward to competing in the MSTA's sanctioned Lehigh Valley Tournament starting Monday.

Keith Usiskin managed to improve on his showing in the Princeton Boys Open two weeks ago by winning the 16-and-under division of the West Jersey Championships in Haddon field.

His semifinal win over Kurt West and his decisive 6-2, 6-4 victory over Bill Clark in the finals should place him near the top of the Middle States rankings at the end of the year.

Several Princeton girls also competed at Haddonfield last week. Beth Oglesby and Vera Jesser advanced the farthest and met each other in the quarterfinals. Miss Jesser won that match but lost a three-set match in the semifinals. Others competing were Lisa and Debbie Garb, Michele Newman, Suzanne Usiskin, Michele Benjamin, Karen Clark, Amy Hill, and Tricia Keeler.

Princeton area girls also did well in the Moorestown tournament. Both Frances Dyckman and Diane Aronovic encountered seeded players in early rounds, but Linda Littell backed up her No. three seeding by overcoming the top seed Jamie Beere, 2-6, 6-3, 6-4 in the semifinal round.

In the finals, Linda defeated Diane Zeluk, 6-2, 6-0, to win the championship.

Mark Goodman

Competing in two Eastern Open tournaments were two more of Princeton's best young women players: Natalie Usiskin in the 18-and-under division at Port Washington, N.Y., and Carrie Balcombe in the 16's at Forest Hills.

DEFENSE IS HIGHLIGHT

In Girls Softball Win. The first of two women's softball teams sponsored by the Princeton Recreation Department got off to a good start this month when it defeated a team from the Princeton Medical Center, 8-4.

Highlighting the PRD win was some fine defensive play by Elizabeth Zingg at first, Carol Mazzela at second, Debbie Breithaupt at short and Peggy Wood at third, and a clutch play at home by Barbara Miller. Johnnie Hill was the winning pitcher.

A three-run homer by Janet Helms in the seventh inning cemented the win for PRD.

Q. To buy or not to buy, that is the question.

Because substance and quality are absolutely essential in this questionable economy, buying an Audi* 100LS makes more sense today than ever before.

You'll be buying the roominess and comfort of a full-sized car: legroom and headroom usually associated with cars twice the price; orthopedically-designed seats that adjust to your body, that reduce fatigue.

You'll be buying German engineering: the control of front-wheel drive and independent suspension; the raciness of rack-and-pinion steering; the extra security of negative steering-roll radius and outboard-vented front disc brakes.

You'll be buying the added economy of fuel injection: 18 miles per gallon* in the city and a startling 28 miles per gallon* on the highway.

It's an elegant, finely-engineered medium-priced luxury car that is built to last. That's substance and quality in any economy, no question about it.

*Based on 1974 Model Federal EPA Fuel Economy Report

This magnificently wooded area cannot hide the "brightest star" which glistens and gleams and takes the form of an absolutely distinctive four (4) bedroom COLONIAL.

The sparkle of the "star" works its way outdoors with its tasteful landscaping, brick walks and superb brick patio.

"HIGHFIELDS FARM"

Goat Hill Road
West Amwell Township

(George Washington never slept here...it was booked solid by the time he arrived!)

Steeped in the historic tradition of the Delaware Valley, dating back to years before the American Revolution, here is a choice spot high on a famous hill with a sometimes view of the river, and completely isolated from its neighbors. Within a short distance of Lambertville and Bucks County, twenty-four minutes to Princeton, and commutable to New York via Trenton or Hopewell, this property boasts everything near and dear to lovers of authentic STONE colonials:

Slate and tin roofs, wide window wells, walk-in fireplaces, brick kitchen floor, cozy rooms, quiet nooks, random pine floors, small window panes, yet with all modern conveniences.

Four bedrooms, three baths, two parlors, library, conversational kitchen, and utility room complete the main house. A frame barn in very good repair features a heated studio room, carriage shed, and a four-room apartment ideal for guests or income!

Just the right amount of land...thirty-eight acres enchance the property with meadows, pastures, brook and woods. It's one acre minimum residential with approximately 1300 feet of frontage. Taxes are just a wee bit above three thousand dollars!

Please call for an appointment and walk back into history with us to a time when houses were houses and people enjoyed tranquility.
